

gave a lunge forward. Our speed increased to fully 200 miles an hour almost in a moment. The limited bearing down on us at forty miles an hour, was now 100 feet away. I saw what was coming and jumped.

"There was a splintering crash, and a dull grinding. The big local car seemed to climb on the heavier loaded car and from its pilot to within six feet of the rear swept over the coach, taking it almost clean. That anything alive could have survived that terrible sweep of splintered and twisted steel is a miracle.

"Following the crash, there was a period of appalling stillness, and then rose the shrieks and groans of the wounded. We who survived and had got out of the wreckage set about to do what we could for the wounded. The wounded were taken from the wreck and cared for on the ground, which was the best that could be done under the circumstances.

The big car was completely telescoped the smaller, and the two were driven through each other. Blood dripped from the cars and formed pools beneath the debris. The conductor's safety box had become wrecked, and it was filled with human blood that had dripped into it. The corpses taken from the wreckage were terribly mangled.

"I watched a young man who had been brought to the scene by news of the disaster to look for loved ones. He was taken to the body of a young woman—it was that of his sister. He looked on with a fixed eye. I told him that his sister was yet to be found, and forthwith he began to dig into the charnel heap to find her body."

DIXIE PLOW WORKS DAMAGED BY FIRE

Brilliant Midnight Blaze Alarms Guests of Adjoining Hotel.

Fire this morning shortly before 2 o'clock seriously damaged Starke's Dixie Plow Works, the loss being roughly estimated at $1,000, partly covered by insurance.

The works are located in an alley running from Fifteenth to Seventeenth streets between Main and Cary streets, being immediately in the rear of the Davis Hotel property which fronts on Main street. One of the plow works front at 7 South Fifteenth Street, but were not reached by the flames.

The fire is believed to have started in the cupola where the iron melting furnace is located. There was little to burn beyond wooden parts of the roof, and the wooden sand boxes used in moulding. The machinery is of massive iron, and is believed to be little damaged.

For the first few minutes after the alarm sounded the fire presented a brilliant scene, greatly terrifying the guests in the Davis Hotel, and in nearby boarding houses, many people streaming to the streets at the first alarm. The blaze was under control a few minutes after the arrival of the department, and but one alarm was turned in.
